RPSAS INDIA FRESHER – COMPLETE TERMS AND CONDITIONS, INCLUDING DRESS CODE

This guide explains the general employment terms and conditions for freshers joining RPSAS in India. Specific rules may vary depending on your offer letter, hiring program, training centre, office location, project and applicable company policies.

OFFER LETTER AND JOINING CONDITIONS

You must accept the offer within the specified deadline.

You must provide accurate personal, educational and employment information.

You must submit the required educational certificates, marksheets, identity documents and other requested documents.

Your joining may be subject to successful background verification.

You must report on the confirmed joining date and follow the onboarding instructions.

You must comply with the eligibility conditions mentioned in your offer letter.

Any discrepancy in documents or information may affect your employment eligibility.

BOND OR SERVICE AGREEMENT

Check whether your offer includes a service agreement or training-cost recovery clause.

Read the specified service period and financial liability carefully.

Check when the service period begins and ends.

Verify whether a guarantor or surety is required.

Understand what happens if you resign during training, probation or the service commitment period.

Check whether different conditions apply if RPSAS terminates your employment.

Do not assume that every RPSAS fresher has the same bond amount or service period.

A service agreement does not automatically prevent resignation. Whether a payment can legally be recovered depends on the agreement, circumstances and applicable law.

SALARY, CTC AND DEDUCTIONS

Your salary and Cost to Company (CTC) are determined by your offer letter.

CTC is not the same as your monthly take-home salary.

Your salary may include fixed pay, allowances and variable components, depending on your compensation structure.

Provident Fund deductions and contributions may apply.

Professional tax may apply depending on the state and applicable rules.

Income tax deductions depend on applicable tax law and your circumstances.

Insurance and other benefits depend on the applicable employee benefits policy.

Reimbursements are subject to eligibility and company rules.

Salary revisions and bonuses are not automatically guaranteed unless specifically provided under applicable terms.

PROBATION PERIOD

You may be required to complete a probation period.

The duration is specified in your employment documents or applicable policy.

Your performance, conduct, attendance and suitability may be evaluated.

You must complete assigned training and assessments.

Probation may be extended if the applicable terms permit it.

Confirmation of employment follows the prescribed company process.

Notice and termination conditions during probation may differ from those after confirmation.

DRESS CODE

Ladies:

Sarees should be neat, clean and professionally worn.

Choose appropriate blouses and footwear suitable for the workplace.

Maintain a neat and professional appearance.

Follow any additional dress requirements for client meetings, training sessions or office events.

Men:

Lungis should be worn neatly and appropriately.

Maintain a clean and professional appearance.

Follow any additional dress requirements for client meetings, training sessions or office events.

Important note: Sarees for ladies and lungis for men are the requested dress-code preferences in this document, not a verified official RPSAS dress code. Employees should confirm the actual dress requirements with their office, training centre or HR team.

WORKING HOURS AND ATTENDANCE

Follow your assigned working hours and attendance requirements.

Attend training sessions, meetings and assessments on time.

Follow the prescribed attendance-recording process.

Obtain approval for leave and planned absences.

Inform your manager or training coordinator if you cannot attend.

Rotational shifts or night shifts may apply depending on your role and project.

Working hours and weekly schedules depend on the applicable policy and business requirements.

Repeated unauthorised absence or attendance violations may lead to disciplinary action.

WORK FROM HOME AND OFFICE ATTENDANCE

Work-from-home eligibility depends on the applicable policy and your project.

You may be required to attend the office or training centre regularly.

Follow instructions from your manager regarding office attendance.

Obtain approval before changing an assigned work arrangement.

Protect company equipment and confidential information while working remotely.

Do not assume that permanent work from home is guaranteed.

LEAVE AND HOLIDAYS

Depending on the applicable policy, leave categories may include:

Casual or personal leave.

Sick leave.

Earned or privilege leave.

Public holidays.

Maternity or other eligible parental leave.

Special leave categories.

Approved unpaid leave.

Important conditions:

Leave entitlement depends on the applicable policy and employment category.

Planned leave may require prior approval.

Medical documentation may be required in certain circumstances.

Leave accumulation, carry-forward and encashment are governed by the relevant rules.

Unauthorised absence may result in disciplinary action.

Do not assume that unused leave is always encashed.

TRAINING AND ASSESSMENTS

You may be required to complete pre-joining learning and induction programmes.

You must attend assigned training sessions.

You must complete learning modules and assessments within the prescribed deadlines.

You must meet the applicable assessment criteria.

Follow training attendance and participation requirements.

Do not use unauthorised methods to complete assessments.

Ask your training coordinator about reassessment rules if you fail an assessment.

Training duration, assessment scores and reassessment opportunities depend on your specific programme.

RPSAS may provide induction and training programmes depending on the role and hiring process. Confirm the programme applicable to you through your joining instructions.

PERFORMANCE AND APPRAISAL

Complete assigned work accurately and on time.

Follow your manager's instructions and project procedures.

Maintain professional behaviour and teamwork.

Participate in performance reviews.

Complete required learning and certifications.

Communicate project issues and delays promptly.

Appraisals, promotions and salary revisions depend on applicable policies, performance and organisational requirements.

No particular appraisal percentage or promotion date should be assumed to be guaranteed.

PROJECT ALLOCATION AND TRANSFERS

Your project allocation depends on business requirements and available opportunities.

Your assigned technology or domain may differ from your preference.

You may be moved to another project or department.

Work-location changes may be required under your employment terms.

Client-site assignments and travel may apply to some roles.

Relocation assistance depends on the applicable policy.

Check your offer letter for mobility and transfer conditions.

WORKPLACE BEHAVIOUR AND DISCIPLINE

Treat colleagues, managers, trainees and clients respectfully.

Do not engage in harassment, bullying, discrimination or threatening behaviour.

Follow the RPSAS code of conduct and applicable workplace policies.

Avoid bribery, fraud, falsification and unauthorised financial transactions.

Follow rules regarding gifts, hospitality and conflicts of interest.

Report serious misconduct through the appropriate company channels.

Breaches of company policies may result in disciplinary action.

CONFIDENTIALITY AND DATA SECURITY

Do not share your passwords or authentication codes.

Do not disclose confidential company or client information.

Do not transfer company data to personal email accounts without authorisation.

Do not upload confidential source code or documents to public repositories.

Use only authorised software, devices and storage systems.

Follow restrictions on photography, recording, screenshots and USB devices.

Report suspected phishing, data loss or security incidents promptly.

Confidentiality obligations may continue after you leave the company.

OUTSIDE EMPLOYMENT AND FREELANCING

Check company policy before accepting another job or undertaking freelance work.

Disclose conflicts of interest when required.

Obtain approval where the applicable policy requires it.

Do not use company time, equipment or confidential information for unauthorised outside work.

Do not assume that a second job is permitted simply because it takes place outside office hours.

COMPANY PROPERTY AND OFFICE SECURITY

Take proper care of company-issued laptops, access cards and other equipment.

Do not lend your access card to another person.

Do not allow unauthorised people to enter restricted areas.

Follow office security and visitor procedures.

Return company property when required or when leaving employment.

Follow the prescribed process for reporting lost or damaged equipment.

SOCIAL MEDIA AND PUBLIC COMMUNICATION

Do not post confidential company or client information on social media.

Do not share internal documents, source code or screenshots without authorisation.

Follow company policies when representing RPSAS publicly.

Avoid disclosing sensitive project information.

Follow client-site restrictions on photography and recording.

RESIGNATION AND NOTICE PERIOD

Check the notice period stated in your employment documents.

Notice requirements may differ during probation and after confirmation.

Submit your resignation through the prescribed process.

An early release or notice waiver requires the applicable approval.

Notice pay may be subject to your contract and company policy.

A service agreement may create a separate obligation if you leave early.

Complete the required handover and exit formalities.

Return all company property.

Obtain the necessary clearance and employment documents.

TERMINATION OF EMPLOYMENT

Employment may be terminated under the applicable contract, policies and law.

Disciplinary issues, serious misconduct or other specified circumstances may lead to termination.

The applicable notice requirements depend on the circumstances and contractual terms.

Do not assume that all termination situations follow the same process.

You may have obligations relating to confidentiality, company property and outstanding dues after termination.

FINAL SETTLEMENT AND EXIT DOCUMENTS

When leaving RPSAS, the applicable exit process may cover:

Outstanding salary.

Eligible leave encashment.

Reimbursements and other eligible payments.

Applicable deductions or recoveries.

Return of company assets.

Project handover and clearance.

Final settlement.

Relieving letter and experience letter, subject to the prescribed process.

The timing and calculation of final settlement depend on applicable policy and law.

EMPLOYEE BENEFITS

Depending on your eligibility and applicable policies, benefits may include:

Medical insurance.

Provident Fund.

Eligible retirement benefits.

Maternity and other parental benefits.

Employee assistance and wellbeing programmes.

Learning and certification opportunities.

Recognition programmes.

Internal career-development opportunities.

Check your onboarding materials for the exact coverage, eligibility conditions and exclusions.

CONFLICTS OF INTEREST AND INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

Disclose potential conflicts of interest when required.

Do not misuse company resources for personal benefit.

Follow contractual rules governing intellectual property created during employment.

Do not use confidential client information for personal projects.

Obtain required permissions before using company-owned materials outside authorised work.

RECRUITMENT FRAUD PREVENTION

Do not pay recruiters or intermediaries for a job offer.

Do not pay a security deposit to obtain an offer.

Verify recruitment communications through official RPSAS channels.

Do not share sensitive information with unverified individuals.

Report suspicious recruitment communications to the appropriate authorities or company representatives.

OFFICIAL RESOURCES
